TRUMAN ASKS 10 BILLIONS FOR DEFENSE

Two New U. S. Divisions Land In Korea Cites Need For Controls, Hike In Tax Rates

Reds Again Turn Artillery Fire On Yank-Held Taejon

TOKYO, July 19—(AP)—Red artillery shells screamed into Taejon today in a resumption of the western battle as thousands of fresh U. S. infantrymen plunged into the Korean war on other fronts.

Both Taejon, formerly a city of 150,000, and a contiguous village, were under North Korean Communist artillery fire. Elements of the U. S. 24th division, which fought the Reds to a standstill at the Kum river, were still holding the city.

The fresh U. S. divisions rushed to the Korean war front are the First Cavalry, dismounted, and the 25th (Tropic Lightning). They were whipped into the Korean theater on 10 days notice.

The 25th presumably went into immediate action. Its location was not disclosed.

The First Cavalry landed unopposed at Pohang, on the east coast. It was the first U. S. amphibious landing of the war. Pohang is a little port 66 miles north of Pusan, important U. S. supply base on the southeast coast.

Unit's Strength Is Secret

The new U. S. troops will lift some of the fighting burden from the American 24th division. The 24th and South Korean troops have been fighting a holding action for days on the Rice paddy fields of western Korea.

This was reported today by Rear Adm. James H. Doyle, who commanded the first U. S. amphibious operation of the Korean campaign.

Doyle said a landing of this sort usually requires three months of planning. Because of the need for speed, this one took only 10 days.

No enemy opposition has been encountered although American troops have made deep penetrations into the countryside. There were American troops in this area before the amphibious landing, however.

The number of troops which have been sent ashore is a military secret. But thousands have arrived to bolster the American and South Korean defense against Communist forces, now apparently building up strength for a renewed push southward.

The First Cavalry landed with all its equipment. This means all the conventional weapons including artillery and engineering equipment like bulldozers.

A vast amount of supplies and materials has been put ashore. Snubbed landing craft and waddling amphibious "ducks" worked in relays to transport the supplies needed by the troops from transports anchored offshore.

Taejon Held By Yanks

In the Taejon area, the battered defense lines of the 24th division "have remained unchanged since yesterday," said MacArthur.

Taejon still is in American hands. Infantry patrols continued to probe enemy territory before Taejon.

After bucking across the Kum river and driving to the outskirts of Taejon, the North Koreans have halted. One explanation was that the river crossing cost the Reds so many men they were still gory. Another was that they could not get across many tanks to lead infantrymen.

MacArthur said the South Korean eighth division inflicted heavy casualties on the Reds in attacks along its front northeast of Taejon.

Other South Korean forces held their positions, MacArthur said.

American jet fighters downed three Russian-made Yak-9 fighters in dogfights near Taejon. The Yaks were caught strafing and bombing U. S. positions.

Red supply lines were pounded by Allied planes. Pack animals were observed moving Red supplies, indicating air strikes have crippled their gasoline supplies.

An East air forces communiqué said Allied aircraft damaged six enemy tanks and 55 trucks in close-support attacks by jet fighters.

Fighters and bombers hit five key bridges behind the front. Carrier-launched jet fighters and bombers spent Tuesday morning covering the American amphibious landing at Pohang. When the job was done, they sped north to strike at North Korean key targets.

These planes came from American and British aircraft carriers off the east coast of Korea.

Tempers Flare In Council Over Parking Program

Merchants Criticize Experiment; C. of C. Submits Proposal

A group of merchants and representatives of the Salem Chamber of Commerce traffic committee protested bitterly to city council Tuesday night on the alleged "half-hearted" interest in which the present traffic program is being carried out.

Almost in unison they demanded that council go all out in their own traffic solution with the passage of ordinances to enforce the parking program or drop the matter altogether and revert to previous regulations.

They criticized council for what they termed "piece-meal" tactics and dared them to ban parking altogether on State st and "then watch what happens to the town."

Explanation Made

Michael Schuller, chairman of the safety committee, explained that the city's plan had not been thoroughly tried out yet and it was a goal eventually to take all parking off State st. He said that in the future meters will be placed on N. Lundy, N. Broadway and Second st "no matter what action takes place."

Mr. Schuller also designated Penn ave, N. Broadway and N. Lundy as proposed one-way streets.

In a flair of tempers, James Aldom, proprietor of the Salem Diner across the street from the City Hall, declared:

"If you don't go all the way with an ordinance in one way or other tonight, my car will be parked right across the street and I defy any policeman to put a ticket on it!" (The diner is flanked with two signs stating "No parking between signs," a regulation covered by a city ordinance. City Solicitor Walter J. Hunton said.)

"Furthermore," Mr. Aldom continued, "I'll be in Lisbon tomorrow to get an injunction out against you."

Mr. Aldom charged the present program and the signs in front of his establishment are "discriminating."

Curtis H. Vaughan, president of council, said that there was no intent of discrimination in carrying out the regulations and that the partial ban on State st is in an experimental stage of carrying out a broader program for the betterment of Salem.

True to his word, Mr. Aldom's car, license number JA-58, was parked at noon today on E. State st, near his diner. It occupied the first parking space on State from S. Ellsworth ave. Police are not permitted to tag the car, since the prohibition of parking in that spot is not covered by a city ordinance. Mayor Harry Vincent said that in the circumstances no action was contemplated.

C. of C. Plan Submitted

George Bowman, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce traffic committee, submitted copies of their 13-point program to council and asked for a commitment from the safety committee on their action.

Mr. Schuller replied that the Chamber plan was never discussed by the committee.

"Would any concentrated efforts on the part of merchants accelerate action?" Mr. Bowman asked.

"I don't know. Some of your members are in favor of our system."

"Who are they?"

"I'm not here to say."

Alroy Bloomberg, Chamber president, quoted a letter from Russell Jackson, local merchant, who stated that his business dropped on July 4 holidays from $107 in 1948 to $3.29 in 1949 and $8.51 in 1950.

Contrasting sharply with the protest was a letter to council from C. F. Coburn of 189 14th st commanding the traffic changes thus far.

Only agreement reached between the Chamber representatives and safety committee was to go over some appraisals of

Bicycle Tags Are Received

Sale Will Begin At City Hall Thursday

Mayor Harry M. Vincent said today 500 bicycle tags, which arrived Tuesday afternoon, will go on sale in the water department office Thursday morning.

Registration is required of all bikes within the city at a cost of 40 cents plus 10 cents for the registrar. Bikes must be registered within 10 days after the tags go on sale, he explained.

When applying for registration bicycle owners are requested to supply the following information concerning their bikes: Make, serial number, color, brake name, frame size, wheel size, tire size, tire make, type of frame, and whether or not their bike has lights or a bell.

The 25th could have gone into action at Yechon, 52 miles inland and on the right side of a line heretofore held solely by South Korean troops. Unexplained U. S. artillery fire was reported at Yechon earlier this week.

The serial number of each bike can be found under the frame on the crank housing, Police Chief Nerr Gaunt said. Those without serial numbers must be brought into the police station for a stamping of a city number before tags can be received.

LISBON Board Okays Plans For Schools

LISBON, July 19—The Lisbon Board of Education accepted plans for both the Lincoln and McKinley schools at its meeting Tuesday night.

The schools were recently approved by the state and advertisements for bids will be received up to 12 noon on Friday, Aug. 18, for their construction.

Bids, which may be separate or combined, will be opened at a special meeting of the board at 8 p.m. that date. The new Lincoln School plans call for a one-story brick, concrete and steel construction of 16 classrooms, plus a kindergarten and gymnasium.

The McKinley School will replace the building destroyed by fire on March 3. It will also be a one-story construction of brick, concrete and steel, with six classrooms, a kindergarten and an all-purpose room.

He Needs No Urging; He's Already There

McKEEPORT, Pa., July 19—(AP)—A letter from the army surgeon general arrived yesterday at the McKeekport home of Dr. Norman E. Willis. It urged the medical corps reserve lieutenant to consider active military duty because of the present situation in Korea.

The letter ended:

"I need not remind you that the need for doctors is a life and death matter to our men serving in Korea."

Willis probably would agree he needs no reminder. He is in Korea—serving with a medical evacuation unit.

Woman Slightly Hurt In Route 224 Mishap

A woman suffered slight injuries in an accident at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday on Route 224 just west of Berlin Center, the State Highway Patrol reported. Two cars and a truck were involved.

State patrolmen said the semi-truck driven by Kenneth Mix, 27, of Detroit had stopped on the highway when the car operated by Pete King, 33, of Akron ran into the rear of the truck. The King car had been bumped in the rear by an unidentified car which was following him.

All three vehicles were headed in the same direction.

Mrs. Grace King, a passenger in her husband's car, suffered a sprained neck but did not require hospitalization. All the vehicles were damaged, patrolmen said.

For families—

1. Tightened installment credit, probably higher down payments and less time to pay.
2. Sooner or later, higher taxes.
3. No price, wage or ration controls now, but later if prices soar.
4. Perhaps fewer things to buy, especially autos and television sets.

For men of military age—

1. Draft summons—for those over 19 and under 26 as needed.
2. A mandatory call to active service for National Guardsmen and Reservists if their units or individual assignments are wanted by the military.

For business—

1. Controls over materials, including government authority to ration supplies and set up priorities to say who should get them.
2. Possibly limited output of civilian goods which take big quantities of steel and other scarce materials.

3. Curbs on inventory hoarding.
4. The possibility that needed materials will be requisitioned.
5. Higher down payment margins in commodity trading.

6. The clearly-implied possibility of an excess profits tax, to produce revenues and curb profiteering.

County Board Meets, Qualifies Draftees

LISBON, July 19—The Columbian County Draft Board met Tuesday night and qualified men for the filling of the county quota of 78 in the 24 and 25 age groups, J. Homer Browne, chairman, said.

Notices will be mailed to the men in this classification in the next few days, with the first group of 30 scheduled to report to Canton for their physical examinations on Aug. 1. The notification of the physical is not an induction call, Mr. Browne said.

The second group of 48 men is scheduled to report to Canton on Aug. 16.

COLUMBIANA, July 19.—The Kiwanis Club held another dinner meeting in Trinity Lutheran Church Washingtonville, Monday night, the third of a series of five during July.

Headlining the program arranged by Galen Burt, was Ralph "Tuck" Moore of Los Angeles, former Columbian resident, who entertained with feats of magic and manipulation. Moore is a graduate of a magicians' school in Los Angeles. He was assisted by William Longshore, Jr.

President William Longshore introduced two past lieutenant governors, Dale Bowman of East Palestine and Lester Dunlap of Salem. Longshore also announced plans to sponsor Mills Brothers three-ring circus, third largest in the United States, here on Sept. 5.

The club also signified its intention of joining in a divisional Kiwanis meeting at Salem, Thursday afternoon and evening.

TONY VIVO, in charge of youth work at Christ Mission Settlement, Youngstown, was the speaker at the meeting of the Rotary Club Monday evening. He showed motion pictures of the work of the mission with children. Fifteen hundred boys of 30 nationalities and 500 girls are enrolled in the mission youth work, which begins with the kindergarten age.

JAMES MAGILL was appointed manager for the merchants' and manufacturers' tent at the street fair and homecoming Sept. 7, 8 and 9, at a meeting of the officers and directors of the Columbian Chamber of Commerce Monday evening. This is the third season for this feature of the fair, which was introduced by the chamber in cooperation with Firestone American Legion Post, its sponsor. Some confusion having arisen

The conference made a gift of 37 preschool packages for children overseas, each woman having contributed an article of clothing or a toy to this nation-wide social service project.

Nylon Hosiery Makers To Allot Production

NEW YORK, July 19—(AP)—Some major manufacturers of nylon hosiery, many of them faced with heavy orders from retailers, have announced plans to allot their production during September.

The producers' action accompanied a reduction range from 7 to 20 per cent in the amount of nylon yarn to be made available to them during August by the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co., supplier of nylon.

With reduced offerings of nylon yarn for August, hosiery producers said they adopted an allotment system for September "to protect regular accounts."

Kennel Club Member's Dog Wins Show Honors

A young dog won honors for a member of the Columbiana County Kennel Club Sunday when Ring of Forest Glenn, nine-month-old boxer, owned by Dr. H. E. Kerr of Youngstown, won best of show at the Erie, Pa., dog show. He topped 528 entries including 15 champions.

Club members are now checking records because they believe this is the first time a dog this age has won a best of the show in any match in the country.

The winner is a son of Linda Von Vermongen, owned by Laura Hamilton of Salem.

Makes Pilgrimage

Fr. Maund Tells Of Rome Tour Sights During Trip Described By Priest

LEETONIA, July 19 — The charm and beauty of Europe are not soon to be forgotten by Rev. Fr. William W. Maund, priest at St. Patrick's Church.

Since his return from the continent he has retold again and again the religious and secular adventures he experienced during the six-weeks Holy Year tour to Rome this spring. He classifies the trip as a series of multiple thrills.

From the start of his trip here, he carried the well-wishes of Leetonia's residents with him. Both the trips over and back were made on the Ile de France and most of the hundreds of people on the boat were making the pilgrimage to Rome.

The greatest thrills to Fr. Maund were the experiences at St. Peter's basilica where 50,000 people gathered to hear Pope Pius XII. He found St. Peter's itself impressive with its perfect symmetry. "It looked small at first but the multitude easily found standing space," he said.

The Swiss guard in colorful uniforms escorted the Pope to the platform where he addressed the pilgrims in English, Italian, German, French, and Spanish. This was a joyous occasion while the canonization of a Spanish archbishop the next day was more solemn, the priest related.

Fr. Maund now tells his friends he found that the people of Europe quickly expressed their affection for Americans, largely because of the Marshall Plan. "To see an American is to smile," they told him. He found the merchants there very honest.

As the constant changing of money posed many problems, dealers could easily have often cheated the Americans. However, a few tourists who accurately checked their purchases found no gouging or trickery.

They found it strangely thrilling to hear a European address them in English. Fr. Maund can speak Italian and thus was more at ease in the Latin countries visited.

"I found Venice exactly what they say it is," Fr. Maund tells his visitors. "Is it a city of lights, music, and tame pigeons which fly to your arm in the quest for food. Canals are everywhere."

On the political note, Fr. Maund says he found England afraid of its own labor government. Switzerland and Ireland, neutrals in World War II, seem to be in the best shape, economically. Fr. Maund always smilingly adds, "But the Irish were in a fight."

In Ireland he visited County Cavan where his Irish grandmother O'Hanlon was born and raised. He traveled to see the Blarney Stone.

"Probably the greatest thrill of all," Fr. Maund says, "was to return to the United States."

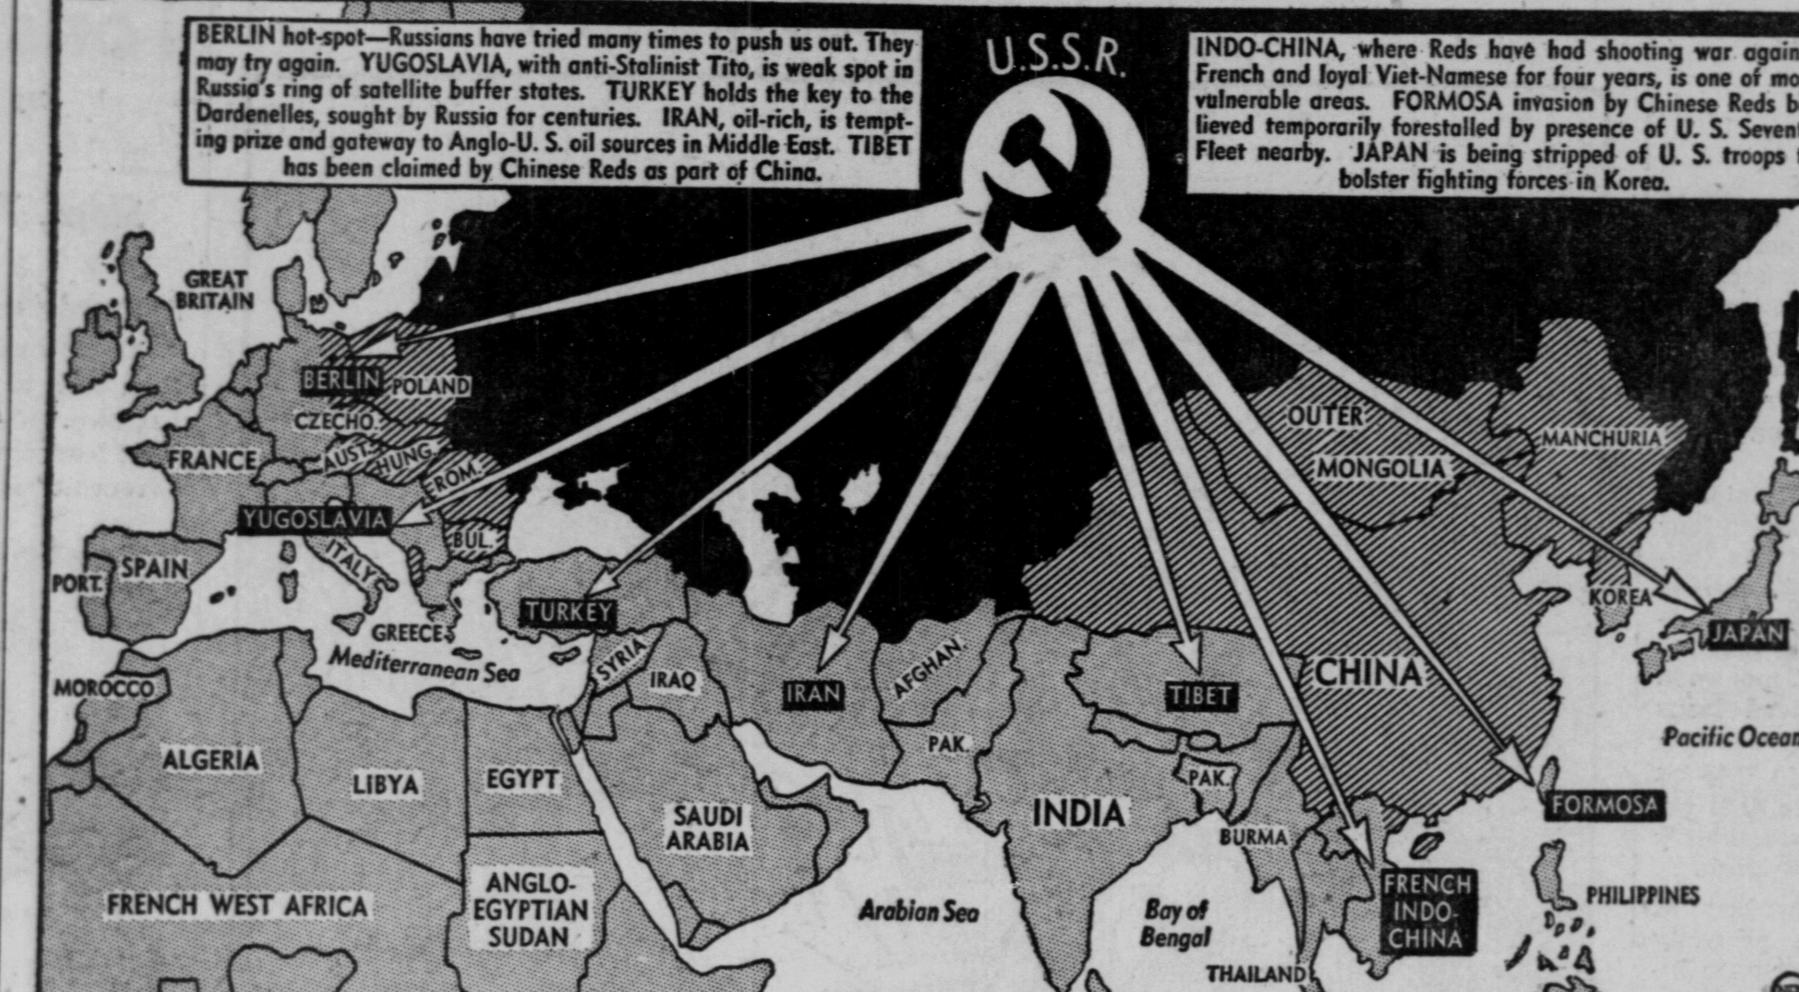

"We gladly left the second class accommodations to be found almost everywhere in Europe. However, the real object of the trip—the Holy Year Pilgrimage—made the trip more than worthwhile."

GOP Plans Senate Fight Over McCarthy

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—

--The GOP high command in the senate predicted a blast of oratory today in protest against denunciation of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) by Democrats.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican leader, told reporters "we are going to have plenty to say, believe me" when Senator Tydings (D-Md) moves to file a report calling McCarthy's Communist-in-Government charges "a fraud and a hoax."

Wherry's statement was backed up by the senate GOP policy committee, which termed the hotly disputed report "purely political" and an insult to McCarthy.

The Republicans, as one of them put it, plan "a hell of a fight" over the report's castigation of McCarthy.

Early Delivery On Autos Still Distant

DETROIT, July 19—(AP)—Immediate delivery of new automobiles still is months away—excepting for a few less popular makes.

If you want one of the popular low or low-medium price models waiting period, generally, is anywhere from a month to six weeks. And scare-buying is making it worse. Of course, there are some instances where a dealer has a few unsold cars on hand and can offer prompt delivery.

But there aren't many such instances and they are only in communities where sales volume never has been great. In some respects, the merchandising division of the auto industry finds itself in much the same situation it struggled through after the end of World War II.

Georgia Senator Says Johnson Should Resign

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—Rep. Lanham (D-Ga) said today that Secretary of Defense Johnson should resign.

Lanham said the Korean war shows the U. S. was unprepared. "It seems to me Johnson made a mistake and misled the people by his statement (in a speech made earlier this year) that if the enemy struck at four o'clock we would be ready to strike back at five," Lanham told newsmen.

Yugoslavia On The Record

UNLESS the rules of power politics in the Balkans have been changed Yugoslavia is trying to line up help for itself against imminent attack, by four of its neighbors, all satellites of the Kremlin.

Milovan Djilas, a member of the Yugoslav Communist party and an official of Marshal Tito's Communist regime, has said publicly that his country has no territorial ambitions in the Balkans and no alliances with any foreign government. It wants only the privilege of maintaining its own sovereignty against the growing threat of attack from Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Albania. Though the government of Yugoslavia does not see eye to eye with the Kremlin, it is an agency of Communism and therefore should be respected by other Communists.

Or, to state the matter bluntly, Yugoslavia is putting itself on the record as being the innocent victim of what is beginning to look like a Kremlin-ordered push to punish it for the political crime of being out of step with the Kremlin. It wants the world to know that it has clean hands and therefore is deserving of sympathy if the well-known Communist tactic of destroying everything it cannot control is used against it.

It must have occurred to Marshal Tito and his spokesman that they should have thought of that eventually when they hooked up with the conspiracy in the first place. Being purged for straying from the party line is an old custom in the Communist party. If Yugoslavian fears are well founded, it is about to happen to a whole country, instead of a few thousand individuals.

A New Kind Of Situation

HANSON W. BALDWIN'S outspoken reminders of American military shortcomings, as published in the July 15 edition of the Saturday Evening Post, were prepared before the beginning of the war in Korea. Events there are clinching his proposition that the United States has won wars because of industrial output, not because of any intrinsic military superiority, either in terms of men or weapons. This country has depended heavily on overwhelming its enemies with superior numbers of men and weights of material, Baldwin points out. He is the military expert of the New York Times.

Walter Lippmann has pointed out in the meantime that the United States, with no major allies, cannot hope to outnumber the armies fighting for the cause of Communism. It must rely on beating them with specialists and the military tools of specialists. Reports from Korea already tell of "banzai" charges by North Korean troops. The outnumbered U. S. troops simply were inundated by waves of enemy infantry. Russian tanks used to support ground troops have proved to be almost invulnerable to U. S. weapons. In the air, U. S. planes seem to have little competition so far. On the sea, it remains to be seen whether Russian-made submarines will be as potent as most U. S. naval experts have been predicting they would be.

They Were Objectionable

THERE ARE three versions of every military incident in wartime. The most important is that of the human beings involved in it. They usually are so deeply involved, however, that they are aware only of details; they do not see the whole picture. Therefore, they cannot tell the story.

The story is most likely to be told accurately by the professional reporters whose job is to keep track of what is going on. Theirs is the second of the three versions of military incidents. That honor belongs to the military establishment which is running the war.

The military establishment has a double purpose to fulfill—to reveal what happened without revealing anything which might prove embarrassing. Obviously, that gives the military establishment a great deal of leeway, also a strong temptation to go overboard on censorship.

Inevitably, it leads to friction with professional reporters and the organizations which employ them. The first overt instance of friction in the Korean war now has occurred. Gen. MacArthur's headquarters, with a bad name for arbitrary and high-handed handling of professional reporters earned in World War II, has high-handed two professional correspondents.

These correspondents, Tom Lambert of Associated Press and Peter Kalischer of United Press, apparently were guilty of nothing more serious than being objectionable to some militarists who took exception to the tone of their dispatches. As has been said so often about war, which is horrible in itself, the hardest part to stomach is the incredible nonsense it permits arrogant officials to perpetrate on all the people who become involved in it.

The danger in going down to work with the flu is that you're liable to get other people down—so they can't go to work.

Curbs On Credit

Unlikely Although Plan Buying Gains

WASHINGTON

ANYONE BUYING anything on the installment plan — and who isn't? — should be interested to know that Washington officials are again beginning to worry about the increase in consumer credit.

Storekeepers, automobile and appliance dealers, home builders and even the loan companies have been reporting that business was seldom better. Some bankers feel it is too good.

The result is that President Truman may again ask Congress for stand-by authority to permit the Federal Reserve Board to put limits on consumer credit, if the boom gets out of hand.

Federal Reserve had this power to control credit during the war.

It expired June 30, 1949. The President recommended extension of the authority, but Congress would have none of it.

At that time, of course, the country was at the beginning of the 1949 slump. Business of some of the automobile companies in particular was falling off. They claimed it was due to too rigid federal controls. So a terrific drive was put on to reduce down payments and extend time payments from 18 to 24 months. Or longer.

AMERICAN consumer debt

A dropped from a total of $16,000,000,000 at the end of 1948 to $15,000,000,000 as of July 1, 1949. But when the brakes were then taken off, volume started to increase again. It was $18,000,000,000 at the end of 1949. As of June 1, 1950—latest figure available—it was $19,100,000,000. This is the highest it has ever been. It is an increase of over $3,000,000,000 in the past year. Increases are in almost every field of credit.

The one thing which is leading the parade in the consumer credit field, however, is the big boom in housing. Every new house naturally creates a demand for new furniture and household appliances which also have to be bought on time. The thing snowballs.

At the end of 1948, the total U. S. mortgage debt on one-to-four family non-farm houses was $33,000,000,000. At the end of 1949 it was over $37,000,000,000. Today it is estimated at $40,000,000,000. Easy government-guaranteed loans in FHA and GI guaranteed loans does the trick.

Some alarmists see in this increasing load of private debt the making of another inflationary boom and an inevitable crash.

To others, the expansion of consumer credit is a perfectly normal thing, consistent with increased population, increased employment, increased business activity.

In 1929 there were 49,000,000 people in the U. S. labor force and total disposable personal income, after payment of taxes, was $85,000,000,000. In 1939 the labor force was 55,000,000 and disposable income was $72,000,000,000. At the end of the war in 1945, the labor force was 65,000,000 and personal income was $172,000,000,000. Today the labor force is 64,000,000, but total disposable personal income is at an annual rate of $222,000,000,000.

THE more people there are working, the more they earn, the more they can afford to borrow and go into debt. This is perhaps best shown by a Federal Reserve Board calculation of the ratio between total consumer credit outstanding and disposable income. This is the way it stacks up for four critical periods:

End of 1929	End of 1939	End of 1945	June, 1950
3.8	6.3	1.6	6.1
Consumer credit as a percentage of income
Mortgage debt as a percentage of income	9.2	11.4	6.6
Total ratio of consumer credit plus mortgage debt as per- centage of income	23.6	25.1	12.8
	32.8	36.5	19.4
			29.9

What this table shows is that consumer debts have risen sharply since the end of the war. But they are still below the record ratios of 1929 and 1939.

Faced with these ratios, it is highly improbable that Congress

CAMPING-OUT, an activity in seasonal favor among the younger set, can be a milestone in the development of a balanced outlook. It changed our outlook—when we belonged to the younger set.

Sometimes it's a cold, gray dawn, which isn't good. But if it's the right kind of dawn, with silver dew and rosy fingers, with birds warbling and the good sun baking the chill out of the night air, that an experience never to be forgotten. All of which has been brought to mind by the fact that last night and this morning these things were experienced by the youngest member of the Twill household, who spent his first night under the stars. To be sure, it was spent only a few feet from the house and his own bed. But he stuck it out from darkness to dawn—and when he told about it at breakfast his eyes were shining. He said he wanted to repeat the experience, and that made an impression. The old man did it once and concluded promptly that he had found out everything worth knowing about camping-out. There was no future in it. Beds, electric lights and screens were here to stay and who was he to snub them by reverting to the nether end of a too-short blanket. Yet, there are compensations.

It is an ideal way to understand what goes on in the nighttime world of half-seen and scarcely understood activities. There is no better way to grasp the infinity of the velvet darkness pierced by the cold light of countless other worlds so distant and so inscrutable that the human mind cannot even encompass the mathematical evidence of their relationship to one another.

Nothing can do more to reveal to an impressionable lad the kind of a place he lives in—so beautiful, so vibrant, yet so full of rocks and sticks and crawling things that bite and tickle: There are a thousand noises in the night, along with a thousand eyes, and every one of them has meaning, which only can be understood by those who have learned to listen without fear.

There are rustlings and cheepings, the sound of scurrying feet and the squeaks and squeals of a myriad of unknown creatures. Even though the camping-out be

U. S. Loses On Psychological Front

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON
MUCH WORSE than the setbacks on the Korean front are the defeats being suffered throughout the world on the psychological front by both the United States and the United Nations.

Never, it might be said, in so grave an international situation has there been such a conspicuous lack of imagination and such timidity as is being exhibited by the United States government in fighting the psychological war.

The Soviet Union has grasped the initiative and has made flank attacks around the United States in the propaganda battles in Asia as well as in Europe.

The lazy answer to this is that the United States hasn't provided the funds—the "Marshall plan of ideas," as Senator Benton of Connecticut calls it. But the truth is that even if $100,000,000 is appropriated, it would be ineffective if our government fails to express itself forthrightly in the propaganda field.

More than three weeks have passed since the Kremlin put the North Korean government up to an aggression that has startled the world. The United States and the United Nations responded with military effort, as yet unsuccessful, but at the same time the Soviets triumphantly grasped the initiative on the propaganda side.

The Russians accuse the United Nations along with the United States of sanctioning aggression. Peace petitions are being circulated with tens of thousands of signatures by the Communists in a publicity stunt which is not being combated effectively by the western democracies.

IN THE FACE OF the plain aggression in Korea, nobody in our government or in the U. N. has officially, formally and loudly called Moscow the aggressor. The United Nations, moreover, has invited American boys to be killed but politely hesitates to warn the nations helping to kill American boys that those nations are aggressors, too. While it is obvious that no nation can be asked to supply military help against its will, it is traitorous for any member of the United Nations at the same time to be supplying arms and military power to the country which is fighting the United Nations forces.

Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan has pointed this up in a speech in the senate in which he demands that the Washington government request the U. N. to adopt a resolution warning any nation helping the North Koreans that it will be regarded as a partner in aggression.

The U. N. got considerable prestige by adopting a resolution calling for military forces to resist aggression in Korea, but it will rapidly lose that prestige if it

Health To You

Dropsy Indicates Poor Protein Diet

PROTEIN foods are important in maintaining good nutrition. In fact now they are often given in the form of strained meats to young infants in order to ward off anemia.

The proteins are unlike the fats and the starches because they contain nitrogen.

Nitrogen is necessary for life. Although nitrogen makes up about three-fourths of the air we breathe, this nitrogen is simply breathed in and out with the air and cannot be used from this source. It must be obtained from some food.

Protein deficiency may follow some illness which does not allow the food to pass to the digestive tract and be absorbed there. Loss of appetite is a common cause or sometimes a sign of insufficient protein in the food. This loss of appetite may be due to some mental causes.

In most illnesses in which there is fever an excessive breakdown of the body protein occurs. The production of hemoglobin, which is the coloring matter of the blood, depends largely on the amount and quality of the protein in the diet. Thus, anemia is another sign which develops either when there is insufficient protein in the diet or when it is poorly absorbed by the body.

An insufficient protein diet over a long period of time leads to improper distribution of water in the body. This causes the development of dropsy, or edema, in which water accumulates in the body tissues. A wasting of tissue also occurs. There is a decline in the ability of the body to produce heat and anemia results from insufficient protein intake.

The best sources of protein for the human body are the animal proteins, such as meat, eggs, fish and cheese. These are usually considered of greater value than the proteins of plant origin which are contained in cereals, nuts and certain vegetables.

Cost has to be considered. Animal proteins are obtained only by feeding large quantities of plants to the animals and therefore the cost of animal proteins is high in relation to the plant proteins.

Consequently some people have to use mostly proteins of plant rather than of animal origin. Nevertheless, for those who can afford it, a reasonable quantity of dairy products, fish, and meat is desirable in order to maintain the proper intake of protein foods.

THE HOUSING situation being what it is, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robin chose a raingutter on the Parma, O., home of photographer Chet Wozney to set up housekeeping. Mrs. Robin deposited four blue eggs in the nest and sat on them faithfully for 14 days. Mr. and Mrs. Robin took turns feeding the youngsters. The young Robins took to the air on three successive days, starting a week after hatching. Last to try wings was youngest, who fidgeted five hours before soloing.

New Test Accurate In Detecting Cancer

PARIS, July 19—(AP)—A new blood test has so far proved almost 100 per cent accurate in detecting cancer in humans, three Swiss physicians reported today.

They told the Fifth International Cancer Research Congress the test is based on a chemical that appears in the blood of persons with cancer. The chemical breaks down a certain kind of sugar, pentose sugar. The test is made by adding blood serum from the person to a solution of the sugar.

The method was described by Dr. Georges Menkes, Dr. P. Rentchnick and Dr. S. Steenmf, of Geneva.

The test was tried, they said, on 200 persons with various kinds of cancer. It was 95 per cent right. An improved version was employed on the second hundred. Dr. Menkes said it was almost 100 per cent accurate.

Blood from 42 of 44 healthy persons produced no reaction on the pentose sugar, while 88 per cent of 124 persons with diseases other than cancer also showed negative reactions to the test, the Swiss expert said.

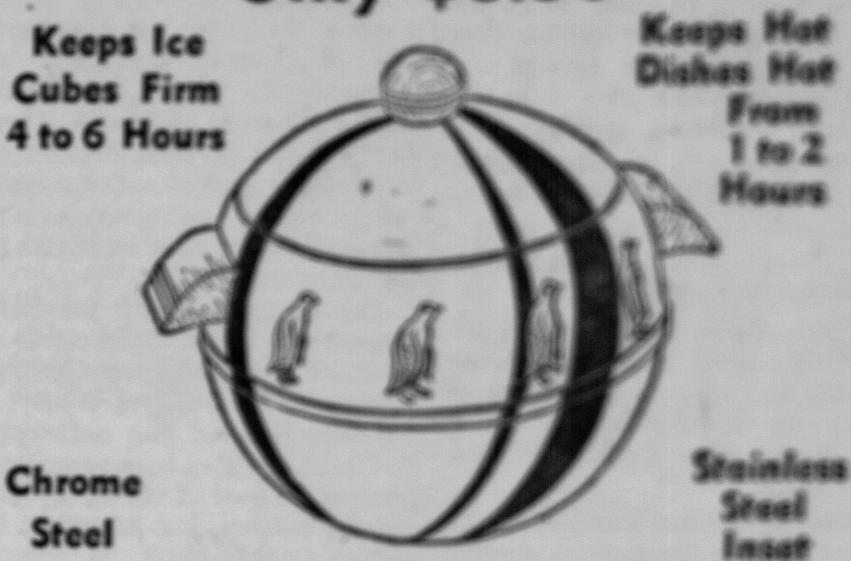

The Congress also heard a description of a new injection technique in which hollow tuoes pushed through human arteries, wind as far as five feet through the body to deliver cannon shots of drugs against cancer growths.

Many Salem Women Making Own Clothing, Reports Reveal

By PEARL WALKER

THERE IS NO SUMMER SLUMP IN SEWING here. Reports on dress pattern sales in Salem stores indicate that scores of local women are making their own clothes. In fact, patterns, yard goods and sewing accessories are having their largest sales in history. The Woman Editor avers. It is said that in 1949, 200,000,000 patterns were sold in the United States alone. This can only mean that the women of the nation are on an enormous sewing spree.

Sewing has been an intrinsic part of home life since the beginning of time. Four Old Testament writers mention it, as does one in the New Testament. There are 6,000,000 more homes with sewing machines than with telephones, statistics reveal.

The pattern is the dressmaker's indispensable tool. Let's look behind the scenes where some of The Salem News Anne Adams patterns are created.

First, there are designer-styleists, who head staffs of fashion scouts and keep in constant touch with up-to-the-minute current trends in New York, Hollywood and Paris.

The particular pattern decided upon by the designer is sketched by the fashion artist. Style lines are carefully checked. From the sketch the blue print is made. The blue print goes to the dressmaking department where a group of experienced drapers develop the design in muslin and determine with utmost care that its details are correct.

Next step is making of the master pattern. For this the muslin parts are reproduced in stiff paper in the model size—if a pattern runs from 12 to 20, size 16 is called the model size. From this perfect model size in the master pattern, all other sizes are graded.

In the drafting room, layouts of pattern pieces are made carefully to insure the most economical use of material.

Child Gets Penny's Worth Buying Candy

HOW MUCH will a penny buy today? Not much, if you are thinking in terms of home furnishings or automobiles. But it buys almost as much as in "the good old days" if you are looking for penny candy, although the selection has narrowed down.

One of the delights of childhood is penny candy. Even the toddlers get a thrill out of being lifted up to the glass show case to make their own selections.

Remember the long sticks of licorice, the flat colorful coconut strips and the caramel sticks (ten for one) that captivated your eye when you were sent to the grocery store?

There are still long sticks of licorice, the flat colorful coconut strips have been reduced and the caramel sticks are out. However, they have been replaced by other items.

"All-day suckers" are tops with tops now and are found in every store where confections are carried. They are the best buy for a penny, from the standpoint of lasting a long time. The new "pink elephant" pieces also are popular.

There are many baseball fans among the kiddies judging from the amount of one-cent "picture bubble gum" sold. Each package contains the picture of a well-known player and one neighborhood store reports that the youngsters try to see who can get the set of pictures first.

Turn of the century kids are penny-wise, too. They try to get the best value for their penny, merchants say.

PRETTY—BUT HOW PRACTICAL?

Summer gardens in Japan are often lighted by firefly lanterns—thin paper cages filled with the bright little insects that children call "lightning bugs." It's a pretty practice, but hardly a practical one:

Americans simply flip a switch and get dependable electricity instantly—for light, to help cook and sew and clean, wash and iron and entertain—and generally make life easy and healthful and comfortable:

People here are used to electric service that works for pennies. Such economy and dependability aren't happy accidents, naturally. You helped achieve them; by your own increased use of electricity. And your friends and neighbors in this company—under sound business management—combine their skills and experience to make electricity just about the smallest item in your budget. Certainly it's the one you depend on most for better living.

Capable of quickly absorbing 16 times its weight in water, the new sponge can be used to make bandages capable of checking hemorrhage, its developers report.

Transocean Airlines Ends 'Diaper Specials'

OAKLAND, Calif., July 19—(AP)—Transocean Airlines says it is through with "diaper specials."

And apparently war brides' appeals to Winston Churchill and Jimmy Roosevelt won't reverse the decision.

A Transocean spokesman said today there will be no more juking of war brides and their offsprings to Europe because:

1. The Civil Aeronautics Board will not permit the specials to fly via Newfoundland because war brides aren't classifiable as religious, educational or philanthropic enterprises.

2. It's too costly to reroute flights via Cuba and Cuban Airlines, as was done with five war bride plane loads.

The decision was immediately protested by war bride groups in San Jose and Stockton, Calif. The latter was prepared to leave for abroad tomorrow.

Mrs. Virginia Longstreet, chairman of the 20 Stockton brides, said she had appealed to Winston Churchill, Jimmy Roosevelt and her congressman, Leroy Johnson.

"But it didn't get me no place," the London-voiced housewife said. "All the girls are heartbroken."

Half Of Ohioans In Draft Deferred

Men With Dependents, Veterans Exempted

COLUMBUS, July 19—(AP)—About half of Ohio's men in the draft-liable 18-26 age bracket—and who now are classified—are deferred either because they are veterans or have dependents, selective service officials estimated today.

Col. Carl G. Wahl, Ohio selective service manpower chief, gave the estimate in answering this question:

"How many draft-liable Ohioans would be affected if Congress, as Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey suggests, tightens the basis for deferments for veterans and registrants for dependents?"

The draft law exempts veterans of 90 days war service or more. At present, the draft is not being applied to married men or persons with children or others dependent upon them for support.

On June 30, Ohio had about 364,000 men between 18 and 26 registered. Of these, slightly more than two-thirds had been classified by local boards. Two out of every five were veterans. About one in every 12 had dependents. A very few were classified as essential to the industries or farms where they are employed.

Exact percentage showed 40.33 per cent veterans and 7.94 percent with dependents. The essential workers bring the total of deferred registrants to slightly less than 50 per cent.

VFW Chief Accuses Leaders Of 'Sleeping'

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—Clyde A. Lewis, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars described the Korean situation today as "an unnecessary and extremely costly repetition of Pearl Harbor."

Lewis said in a statement that Americans are dying "needlessly" in Korea because "responsible agencies of the federal government" were "asleep at the switch" when the fighting started and American military forces were permitted "to deteriorate in the interest of economy."

However, since America is committed to the Korean action, Lewis said, "the V.F.W. pledges its whole-hearted support."

Food Storage Urged By Farmers Union Head

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers union, urges the storing of rather large supplies of food around major cities as a precautionary war measure.

Patton, after calling on President Truman, told reporters he also thinks we should begin to make and store a supply of farm machinery and parts. He said he discussed it with the President but didn't disclose Mr. Truman's reaction.

Patton said he isn't afraid of setting up substantial reserves of foods that are usable and storable. He said that around New York, for instance, "I would have 1,000 places, so if things got really tied up we would have food supplies."

Retired Admiral Dies

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 19.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Olton R. Bennehoff, 54, U.S. Navy retired, died of a heart attack Monday.

A native of Tiffin, Admiral Bennehoff served during World War I with U.S. naval forces operating in British waters.

Interest In Pottery, Glassware Runs High

NEW YORK, July 19—(AP)—Although there is little "war scare" buying of glassware and pottery in sight, prices are firm and order booking is active at the national china, glass and pottery show here.

Sponsors of the show, which opened Sunday, said 1,563 buyers registered during the first two days, compared with 1,100 a year ago.

Retailers and American manufacturers agreed that domestic glassware producers had been hard hit by foreign competition—especially that from Iron Curtain countries. China and earthenware makers from the middle east said they were feeling the effects of the growing California dinnerware industry.

C. W. Carlson, president of the United States Glass Co., Tiffin, O., said "Czechoslovakia sells glassware here by the pound for one-third the American price."

He added that "our labor costs bear no comparison with those abroad."

Of the 204 exhibit spaces taken at the show, about 25 percent represent foreign goods. Show management officials said imports are in better supply than at any time since the war.

"How we gonna tell a South Korean from a North Korean?"

* We've been reading lately where major league operators believe their sport will be entirely shut down in the event of a national emergency (war). * They don't believe there will be any effort to preserve baseball in any form. The same goes for other major sports activity. * It's probably just as well, if a war comes to pass. The game of baseball went to pot thoroughly during the last war. * It was a strange situation. Pitcheers who had no business in a major league park without paying admission, racked up 18 or 20 victories a year. * Infielders who wouldn't have climbed out of Class B in ordinary times were playing in the big show and getting by. * The few real ball players who escaped the draft for one reason or another, stood out like beacon lights. Hal Newhouser was one.

Kramer Signs

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

I'm getting so that it pays to be an "old pro" even in a game like tennis . . . From Promoter Bobby Riggs' office some word that Jack Kramer has been "signed" for the 1950-51 tennis tour (which isn't surprising since Jack is practically a partner in the deal) and his opponent likely will be Pancho Segura . . . That seems to leave Dick Gonzales, who jumped head first into the pro game after winning one national title, on the outside or in a secondary spot . . . And if Gussie Moran listened to Riggs' offers, it probably will be outside.

Segura, no great shakes as an amateur player despite his pleasing personality, learned enough as a pro to beat Kramer in the national pro tournament and win his shot at the tour . . . Riggs mentioned Budge Patty, the Wimbleton champ, or the 1950 winner at Forest Hills as a possible opponent Kramer, but Budge wouldn't be a big attraction unless he won both titles . . . Gonzales' best chance of sticking with the tour seems to be that Gussie will refuse to reduce her figure—the $75,000 she's supposed to be asking, we mean . . . Riggs knows a couple of good looking girls will draw better than two guys who can play better tennis, but he also knows how to keep the club's nine hits.

Bob and Dix Trout of the Tigers had it made.

* The theme at that time was "save the game at any cost." It was supposed to "keep up the morale" of the boys overseas.

* In nine cases out of 10, it is doubted if any of the doughboys cared a whoop whether the Yankees won the pennant or the Browns (and they did).

The husky right hander's 10-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics last night was his 14th against four defeats. Last year, when he finished with a 22-10 record, he didn't win his 14th game until Aug. 14.

Lemon allowed nine hits in the seven innings he twirled last night, retiring after suffering a minor injury when he deflected a line drive with his bare hand.

Al Benton pitched the last two innings and didn't allow a hit.

For the A's, the loss was their 11th in 14 encounters with the Tribe this season and their fourth defeat in a row.

A single by Luke Easter, combined with a walk and two errors gave the Indians two runs in the initial frame and they added two more in the third on Al Rosen's 27th home run. The rookie third baseman now leads both leagues in circuit smashes.

Held scoreless during the next four frames, the Tribe pushed over five runs in the eighth on four hits, two walks and an error. They got another marker in the ninth, but it was unearned.

First baseman Ferris Fain had a big night at the plate for Philadelphia, getting four of the club's nine hits.

Bob Feller will start on the mound for the Tribe tonight, opposing Dick Fowler.

The Boston Braves are flying high, in a triple tie with Philadelphia and St. Louis in the sizing N. L. pennant race. It's the first time they've been on top since the opening week of the season.

DETROIT'S AMERICAN

League lead was cut to 3½ games at Boston where the Red Sox outlasted the Tigers, 12-9 in a slugfest marked by Vern Stephen's three-run homer in the first inning.

Mize forced them to reconsider yesterday when he whacked two home runs against the Browns, his fourth and fifth, and went four-for-four to sky rocket to .303.

"They were all for sending me to Oakland," admitted the burly, beeftiful first baseman, "but I told them I wouldn't go. I asked for my release so I could catch on with another big league club."

That club was Detroit and rather than let the Tigers grab Mize, the Yankees decided to let him hang around.

Big Jaw Mize hit two homers and added 45 points to his batting average with four hits in New York's 12-1 slaughter of St. Louis.

Mize went into the game with a 258 average and came out hitting .303.

Washington jammed all of its six hits off Ray Scarborough, an ex-teammate, into the first two innings of a 4-2 triumph over Chicago.

Gil Coan's double and Irv Norton's second single accounted for a game-winning batch of three runs in the second inning.

PLAY GIRLS TEAM

The Terminal Tavern Class A team will play a doubleheader at 8 Wednesday at West End park against the All-Star Panther Girls.

All five St. Louis runs came in the fourth inning with a double by Enos Slaughter, a two-run single by Eddie Miller and singles by Del Rice and Brazile driving home the scores. Brooklyn got one in the fifth and two more in the ninth on Carl Furillo's homer following Jackie Robinson's two-out single.

The Phillies got away with a split at Chicago, breaking a five-game losing streak with an 8-3 romp in the second game of a doubleheader. The Cubs took the opener, 5-2, with the help of Bill Serena's two homers and Paul Minner's seven-hit pitching. Rookie Bubba Church held Chi-ago to five hits in the second game for his first route-going performance.

Hub, Demings Tighten Hold

Pumpmakers Move Into Third Place In AA

The Hub tightened its hold on second place in the AA League and Demings vaulted into undisputed third place with a pair of victories Tuesday night at West End park.

In Class A, Terminal Tavern and City Sporting Goods won their games, making it a tight race for third and fourth place.

The Hub handed the Sanitary a 4-2 setback, based on a three hit mound job by Dave Ehrhart. It was the winners' tenth season victory, against four losses.

Demings fashioned a 7-4 win over the Electric Furnace, although outhit 7 to 5. The winners notched four runs in the third and three in the sixth. Wayne Hahn led the sticking with two hits.

Another three hitter was tossed last night by Miner of Sporting Goods. He beat Butler Grange 8-4 as his team scored heavily in the early frames. Kling and England each pumped three hits.

Terminal Tavern scored late in the game to get a 6-4 nod over Fisher News. They slapped out 10 hits to Fisher's four. Bell was the winning hurler.

In the AA loop, only Bliss and The Hub are almost certain of gaining the Shaughnessy playoffs. Mullins, Amverts and Demings are on the borderline and one will have to be eliminated.

Both the C. I. O. and Saxons are on safe ground in Class A. Four teams—Fisher, Butler, Terminal Tavern and Sporting Goods—all have a chance for the other two spots.

Rocket Missile To Receive Test

Weapon Built Around V-2 May Cross Ocean

LONG RANGE PROVING GROUND, Cocoa, Fla., July 19—(AP)—Workmen began long before dawn today readying a double-headed rocket for a shot over the Atlantic ocean that may be the longest flight of its kind.

The rocket was the two-stage "bumper" an army ordnance project built around the German V-2 with a little "Wac corporal" in its nose, expected to fly up to 300 miles.

It was arranged as the first horizontal or low-angle firing of the V-2 in this country as well as the first launching at the sprawling base operated by the Air Force as a missile proving ground of all the services. Against England, the Germans fired the V-2 up to 220 miles.

The experiment of low angle firing marks a new phase in the long struggle for development of rockets into a long range, accurate weapon.

The Army project, carried on through a contact with General Electric Company, already has studied in six previous firings straight up the problem of launching a small rocket from the nose of a spent or nearly spent larger rocket.

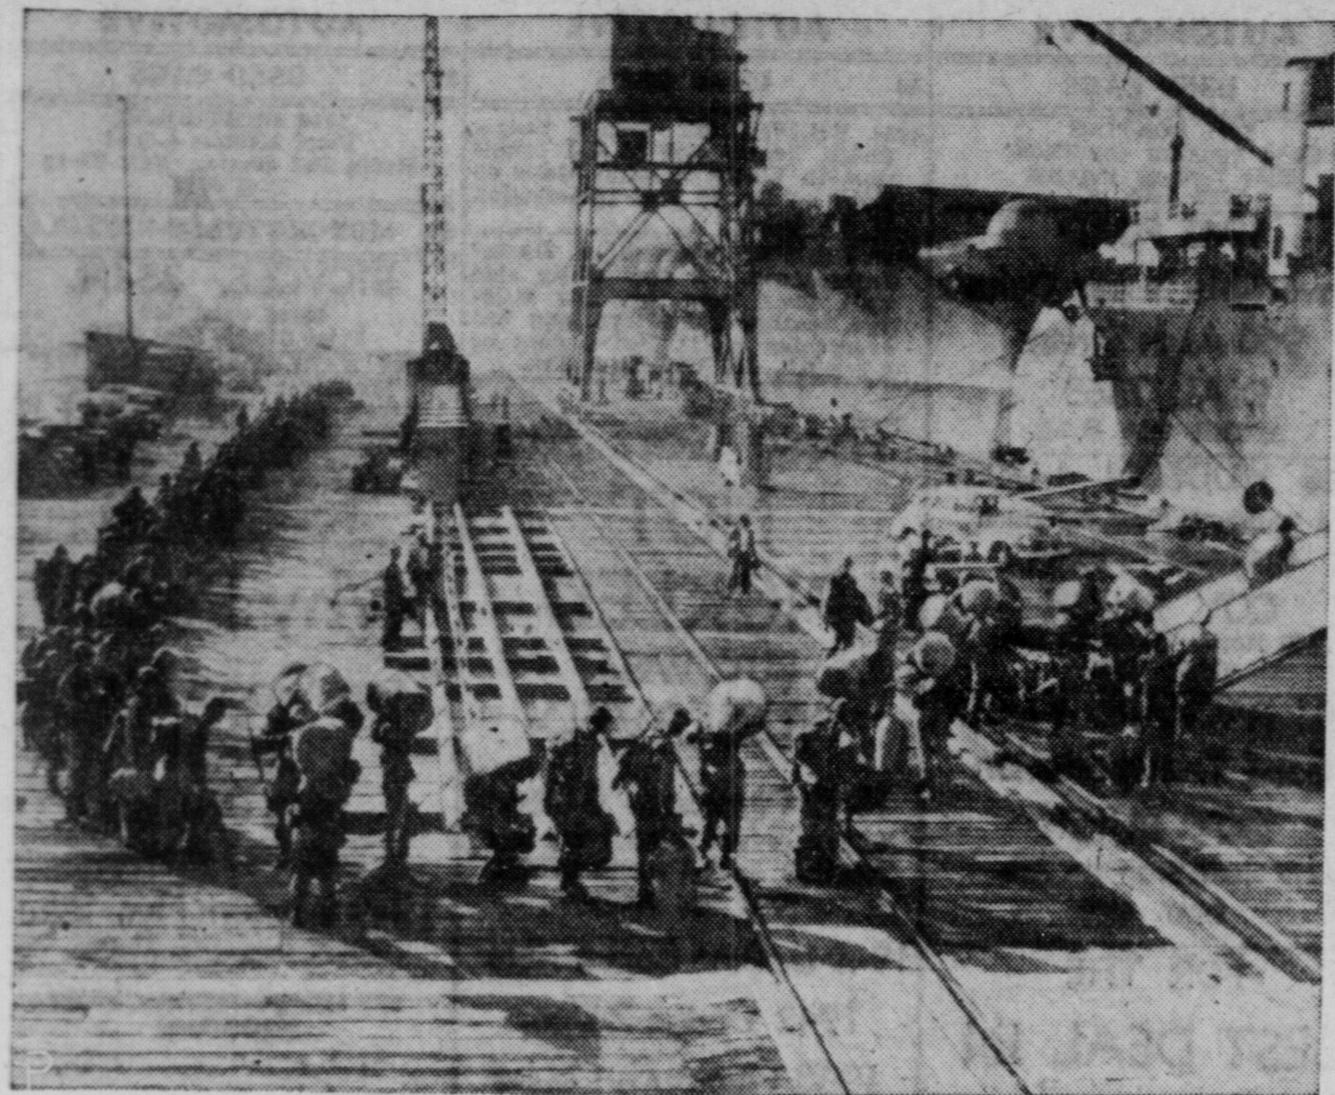

This new phase goes into the problem of air effects on very high speed rockets—3,500 to 5,000 miles an hour—flying at relatively low altitudes.

The "bumper" was expected to go no higher than 25 miles compared with a normal V-2 attack altitude of 65 miles and the 250 miles high record set by a V-2 and Wac corporal combination at White Sands, N. M., early last year.

The goal is to achieve "pin point" accuracy with rocket missiles compared with a German record of dropping them within 10 miles radius of the aiming point.

The United States already has reduced that probable radius to five miles, he said.

Tons of liquid oxygen and alcohol were hauled to the site for the launching. The V-2 gulps 5,000 gallons of fuel at each filling.

Federal Housing Credit Restricted

Designed To Aid U. S. Defense, Curb Inflation

WASHINGTON, July 19—(AP)—Clamps were tightened on the government-fostered housing boom today in a move to curb inflation and save materials for the expanding national defense effort.

The pressure came from a presidential order yesterday to restrict credit requirements on sales of houses. It was due to be felt by buyers, sellers, builders, public housing programs for low-income families, college dormitory projects—in short, practically every non-military housing plan requiring government help.

A 25 per cent jump in the minimum cash down payment required on houses sold with mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration was a major immediate effect.

Thus a man who last week could have bought a $10,000 house with $2,000 cash and an $8,000 FHA-insured mortgage would have to pay $2,500 cash because FHA would go only $7,500 on the mortgage.

Home-buying veterans, hitherto able frequently to get a seller's waiver of any cash down payment if they could get a mortgage guarantee from the Veterans Administration, faced tougher going.
